

Child, Youth and Family Studies Diploma (CYFS2)

Program Outline

PROGRAM IMPLEMENTATION DATE:	September 2016
OUTLINE EFFECTIVE DATE:	September 2023
PROGRAM OUTLINE REVIEW DATE:	March 2028

GENERAL PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

The CYFS Diploma is designed for students who wish to extend their knowledge and skills outside of their certificate designation. Once in the workforce, certificate graduates may find they need to enhance their knowledge and skills by exploring peripheral needs which impact the clients they work with. Others find themselves looking to expand their responsibilities and options within a broader field. Within the field of child, youth, and family studies, employment opportunities and remuneration are frequently enhanced by having a diploma. In addition to career advancement and professional development, there are many course options in the diploma which transfer to degree programs.

This diploma is awarded to students who successfully complete all of the following:

1. An acceptable certificate in a related field of study with a minimum of one 180-hour practicum – suitability of certificates are determined by the Registrar's Office.
2. The prescribed diploma curriculum of six (6) courses
3. A minimum of 60 credits completed.

It is recommended that students talk to an Education Advisor to develop a course plan for this program.

Program Information: The CYFS Diploma is a part of the Child, Youth and Family Studies program. The program has block and individual course transfer agreements with various BC institutions. For more information see <http://www.cotr.bc.ca/Transfer>. Students with an existing certificate must complete all diploma requirements within three (3) years of enrolling into the diploma for ECIT, ECSN, HSWR, and CYFS2.

Delivery: This program is delivered online.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS:

CRIM 131: Introduction to the Criminal Justice System

This course involves a critical examination of the structure and operation of the system that responds to crime and criminal behaviour: the police, courts and corrections. This course also examines the relationship between these agencies and the impacts and implications of the system. An emphasis is placed on experiential and interactive learning where students will engage with various individuals involved in the system. This course also includes an introduction to Indigenous justice models, community and restorative justice.

CYFS 201: Independent Study

This course is designed for focused, discipline-specific learning in the field of child, youth, or family studies. Students will systematically identify, plan, execute and evaluate a learning project related to their professional field.

ECED 149: Studies in Diversity

This course is designed as an introduction to studies in human diversity. It provides students with a foundation from which to explore diversity and examine the issues related to it.

ENGL 100: English Composition

English 100 focuses on composition for academic purposes and develops a student's ability to write clearly and effectively. Students also learn the fundamentals of critical thinking, persuasive writing techniques (including rhetorical appeals and devices), scholarly research, and academic reading.

HSWR 211: Conflict Resolution

This course provides students with an introduction to the theory, process, and skills of conflict resolution in child, youth, and family related conflicts. The course will introduce students to the core elements of conflict, restorative justice, mediation, and negotiation, and will provide the opportunity for students to develop skills for negotiating personal and professional disputes.

HSWR 212: Crisis Intervention

This course provides the student with an introduction to the theory and practical day to day procedures of crisis intervention. Students may be exposed to crisis topics common to a variety of helping profession disciplines, including counseling, education, and social work.

HSWR 213: Introduction to Mental Health Issues for Children and Youth

This course uses a strengths-based approach to working with children and youth with mental health concerns. This course introduces students to the most commonly diagnosed mental illnesses, the direction for interventions, and the professionals presently working in the mental health field.

HSWR 214: Introduction to Addictions

This course provides the learner with an overview of current practice, theories and models in the field of substance use. Topics include: models of addiction, assessment, intervention and treatment for alcohol and other drug abuse; the impact of substance use on the individual, family and society in general; and ethical issues and challenges for practitioners.

HSWR 215: Issues in Adolescence

This course introduces students to the contemporary study of adolescence from a lifespan perspective. It explores the challenges and the strengths of adolescence along with the ways this knowledge can be applied to support healthy development among the diversity of young people in this period of life.

INDG 203: Indigenous Ways of Knowing

This course introduces students to concepts of Indigenous traditional knowledge, worldview and epistemology through witnessing Elder teachings, insights from Indigenous scholars and experiences of Indigenous community members. This course begins with a review of knowledge creation and ways of knowing. It then explores the value, importance and uniqueness of Indigenous ways of knowing and pedagogy in comparison to Western ways of knowing and pedagogy through exploring questions that are important to First Nations peoples.

INDG 205: Indigenizing Practice

This course explores ways to address the learning and teaching needs of children and youth in the context of Indigenous practice, through examining concepts of Indigenization, Truth and Reconciliation, and an in-depth study of the Ktunaxa Nation Council's Social Sector Practice Framework. Students will be asked to consider their relationship to Indigenous nations, knowledges, and practices, and will be encouraged to think critically about what "Indigenizing" means for their own practice.

INDG240: Indigenous Family Support Studies

This course explores the diverse and unique nature and dynamics of First Nations, Aboriginal, Metis and Inuit (referred to inclusively as Indigenous) families. Students learn directly from Indigenous families, their support networks and advocates their strengths as well as the challenges and struggles they continue to face through the imposed transition from traditional to contemporary family roles. From this, students will work towards fostering a better understanding of how they can assist in providing culturally appropriate family support, and promoting family wellness and safe environments for children.

MGMT 216: Organizational Behaviour

In this course students can discover and apply concepts to both explain and influence how people and their organizations work. Specific topics include motivation, perception, personality, emotions, communication, team dynamics, decision making, conflict and negotiation, power and organizational politics, leadership, organizational change and development, organization, and culture.
